Book Introduction

Are you seeking clarity through these troubled times?

Perhaps you've sacrificed the bulk of your life for others around you, your family and your community. It's time you want to live for yourself, but you wonder what that would look like. You question what's your purpose in life and the future seems fuzzy.

Maybe on the surface, things seem to be going fine, but internally, you are struggling. You wonder in your heart, "Is this it? Is this what life is meant to be?" Recently, there has been a stirring in your heart that there is more, more to your capacity, more to your destiny. Yet you wonder, "What can I offer?" You want to find the courage for your voice to be heard, to make a difference in this world.

Or perhaps, you find opportunities ahead of you, but you refrain from them, you don't feel qualified or deem it too risky for uncertain times like these. You wish all these unpredictable times would just be over. You long for the day when you feel 100% in control or when you no longer feel like an impostor, to finally fulfil the dreams in your heart.

I want to encourage you, there is hope! AND THERE IS MORE. Perhaps, just perhaps, you are positioned in times like these, not only to find hope, but also to bring hope, not only to step into more, but also to help others step into more.

Why This Book Was Birthed

Personally, I was going through a season of stretching last year. When COVID-19 hit, my role was affected, pay was cut, but demands went higher. There were so many uncertainties that brought me a lot of anxieties.

As I was worshipping and dancing in my room, the story of the woman with the issue of blood came to mind.<sup>1</sup> She had sought doctors everywhere but in vain. Jesus did not even notice her in the crowd, but I admire her boldness, that she boldly came near, stretched out and touched His shawl in faith. Immediately power flowed from Jesus into the woman and she was healed at His feet.

She was not noticed, and possibly despised because of her condition. Yet, she stretched out in faith and found her deliverance. A hidden woman but made known to the world as an example of faith.

In response to this story, I knelt down with tears in my eyes and stretched out in faith, to touch Jesus' feet, to touch His shawl. I wanted that same power to flow through me. I felt as if there were a little tap on my shoulder, as if a voice were saying, "Daughter, look up." I felt as if someone were gently lifting my chin to look up; I felt as if I were kneeling in front of a King on a throne. I could not see His face, but I saw Him extending a scepter towards me. I felt I needed to arise from my kneeling position on the floor to stand and touch the scepter.

I felt as if a voice were telling me, "Change your posture, my darling. Look up. Don't beg anymore, arise in My authority and walk out your dreams. Know that you have access to Me anytime."

The same year that started out bad turned out to be the best year for me. I had fulfilled my childhood dream of publishing 2 best-selling books, even though I had failed English in school! I received unexpected opportunities to speak in large crowds and in podcasts, which was unimaginable, being an introvert! I started my own programs and clarity workshops, which helped me in my transition when I migrated back home from Sydney, Australia. Most importantly, I found likeminded friends and mentors, which I have been praying for years! They formed a family who would support me and help me grow in this journey. Thanks to COVID-19 and technology, I now have access to this family worldwide!!

That is the reason for this book. What was meant for evil can be turned around, despite the uncertainties. It was a personal study that became a sense of urgency to spread this good news.

I believe I have found some strategies in the book of Esther that will help navigate you through this season. I also believe this is a time of a new era, where you can find supernatural favour in all that you do. For some of you, you may have heard the story of Esther a gazillion times, but I encourage you to read on, because I believe there is something new, prophetically fit for this season, this new era and specifically for you. This is the time to arise in the authority of our King to receive supernatural favour and reign in life!
